Realizing the Abidjan Principles on the Right to Education

Human Rights, Public Education, and the Role of Private Actors in Education
This insightful book analyses the process of the first adoption of guiding human rights principles for education, the Abidjan Principles. It explains the development of the Abidjan Principles, including their articulation of the right to education, the state obligation to provide quality public education, and the role of private actors in education.

Multidisciplinary in approach, both legal and education scholars address key issues on the right to education, including parental rights in education, the impact of school choice, and evidence about inequities arising from private involvement in education at the global level.

Focusing on East African and Francophone countries, as well as the global level, chapters explore the role and impact of private actors and privatization in education. The book concludes by calling for the rights outlined in the Abidjan Principles not to remain locked in text, but for states to take responsibility and be held to account for delivering them, as promised in international human rights treaties.

Interpreting human rights law as requiring that states provide a quality public education, this book will be a valuable resource for academics and students of education policy, human rights, and education law. It will also be beneficial for policy makers, practitioners, and advocacy groups working on the right to education.
Contents

Part I

Chapter 1
Developing Human Rights Guiding Principles on State Obligations Regarding Private Education
Sylvain Aubry, Mireille de Koning, & Frank Adamson

Part II

What Education Research Reveals

Chapter 6
Evidence on School Choice and the Human Right to Education
Joanna Härmä

Chapter 7
How and Why Policy Design Matters: Understanding the Diverging Effects of Public-Private Partnerships in Education
Antoni Verger, Mauro C. Moschetti, and Clara Fontdevila

Chapter 8
The Growth of Private Actors in Education in East Africa
Linda Oduor-Noah

Chapter 9
The Evolution and Forms of Education Privatization within Francophone Countries
Marie-France Lange

Chapter 10
Synthesizing the Research to Strengthen the Implementation of the Abidjan Principles
Frank Adamson, Delphine Dorsi, and Magdalena Sepúlveda Carmona

Annex
The Abidjan Principles Process and the Ten Overarching Principles
About the series: International Education and Development

The books in this series intend to generate an international debate on emerging trends in education and provide space for authors that represent diverse perspectives and knowledge communities. Reflecting the mission of NORRAG to produce, disseminate and broker critical knowledge on topical issues that emerge in education and development, the series aims to serve as a knowledge broker at the interface between research, analysis, policy and practice within the comparative, development and international education community.

NORRAG main supporters are the Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation, the Open Society Foundations and the Graduate Institute, Geneva, of which NORRAG is an Associate Programme.